As global mobility becomes increasingly connected, electrified and automated, HERE Technologies is leading the way to a safer, greener future.

Our location platform is integrated into more than 160 million vehicles across the planet, using fresh and accurate data that we have been building for over 35 years - and continue to refresh daily. Our experience in mapmaking has made HERE one of the leading innovators in location technology and spatial intelligence.

We work with global brands, partners, developers, and customers so that together we can move the world forward. Location intelligence is shaping how we plan transportation and logistics operations, help cities sustainably reboot their mobility infrastructure, and help ensure that the future of automated and connected driving is safe.

Armed with critical location data and technology tools, we're developing solutions that solve the biggest challenges that face us today and help us plan for a better future.
